What's New in the?

App2date is a handy and reliable application designed to keep your applications up to date by constantly scanning webpages. UPDATE: 64-Bit version (v1.0.0.1) now available. This is a 32/64-bit version and can be set for both. Simply install both the 32-bit and 64-bit version to update all installed applications, you will be asked which one to install during an update procedure. You can have as many unique apps as you want which are named with a unique pattern (dot by the way). The naming scheme is quite easy to remember. An '@' indicates the version number: @ = actual version Ex: if you have a v0.5.3 application and you want to have another v0.5.4 version a simple app2date update would be @. The @ tells app2date to change the v0.5.3 version to v0.5.4. To update the other v0.5.3 application (without a name change) add another '@' like this: @. So, v0.5.4@ would be the new v0.5.4 version. App2date will update all v0.5.3 applications to v0.5.4 (within a certain time frame). You can set the app update time frame just by entering the interval in minutes (max is 60). The interval can be changed any time with the help of a configuration file: Simply edit it. To edit the config file of the current user, just open the file with the editor of your choice like Notepad. You will find that inside the 'app2date.cfg' file. The config file has a set of configurations: Name: Name of the update interval. Method: Method of update the application when new version is available. Min: Minimum version that app2date will check for updates. Max: Maximum version that app2date will check for updates. Interval: The interval in minutes which you want to update. If you have any question about config file, just ask me and I will help you. If you want to have a non-connected app2date application (or one that is not unique at all), just disable the name checking. On the configuration file, set method to: Normal: just scan for
