What's New In EZGumtree Poster?

Three different projects to share from the past couple of months. 1. This is part of my ongoing project - an ultra lightweight HTML web app. See www.helloposter.com. It is a hybrid web app that can be run on pretty much any device that has a browser. The web app part is being built with AngularJS and the mobile app part is using Cordova. The two are wired together by using a simple REST API. Websites need a webhook in order to link to and use it to ping their API. The webhook URL is here: host.com/hook Thanks to 2. This app is live on the App Store for iOS. A website builder with a clean, super intuitive, drag & drop interface. Type out your website, preview it in real time, and the app will build it for you. 3. This app is available for both iOS and Android. It looks like a simple brochure creator. It can help you create your own ready to print brochures that you can take around with you. Notes: For iPhone and iPad, you need to add the "sidekick" app to your iPhone settings. For Android, follow instructions here: This application is a nice app to create for the client's campaign, but not for purchase order or other complex tasks. I like the way it allows to drag and drop and see how it looks. Simple yet effective :) The best part of the website builder is the price, it is unbelievably low for what it does, so in my opinion it is a must have. An interesting way to build a website is through a website builder tool. Webposter is one of them. It is a great tool as long as you know how to use it. It does a good job of building out the basic functionalities and keeping you safe by preventing you from doing bad things such as spamming your own posts and using bots etc. To be honest, I had some difficulties adding posts to my website that I had purchased through the website builder. I had to delete the website builder and re-add it. Sometimes you have the same problem in other website builders, but in this case it seems it was just
